KEY WEST WON'T FIT THROUGH YOUR SUNROOF.

Cars don't work in Key West. Forget the traffic and parking hassles, cars just block out too much good stuff - like sunshine, fresh air, and the general wackiness that makes our little island so special. Get out there in the mix. Walk among the party. Rediscover the joys of biking. Revel in taking your time. We promise your two feet and a little sense of adventure will let in a lot more Key West than any old sunroof.

Car-Free Key West Safety Tips

Slow down... this ain't the mainland

Key West is big in personality, but not so much in size, at just 4 miles long by 2 miles wide. Combine that with 2.5 million visitors a year, and you're looking at an exciting atmosphere year-round. There's so much to see and do here, and so many ways to do it. It's different here. You'll notice a lot more people walking and biking. So whether you drive, bike or walk we want everyone to get the most out of their time here, ensuring a safe and enjoyable environment for all. Below you will find safety tips for all modes of island travel.

Regardless of your mode of transport, whether it be car, bicycle or feet, everyone can be a PAL:

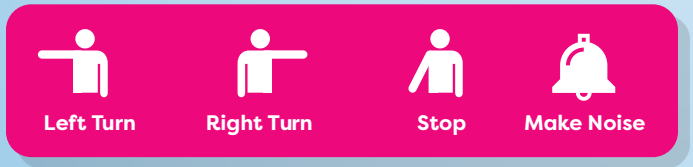

Predictable
Don't make sudden or unexpected moves that could cause confusion

Alert
Always pay attention and be aware of your surroundings

Lawful
Know and obey the traffic laws at all times

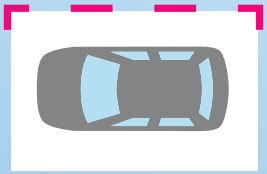

Communicating is Key!

Use hand signals in front of cars to let them know your actions. Use a bell or provide audible warnings when passing others.

Be Aware of the 3' Door Zone

When Driving a Car in Key West, appreciate the vulnerability of people walking and biking. Slow down – this ain't the mainland. Know that bikes can use the full lane. Always provide 3-feet when passing.

Drivers:

- SLOW DOWN! Pay attention. There's lots of pedestrians and bikers out there
- Put down the cell phone. Absolutely no using it while driving
- Vehicles must pass on the left and always provide 3-feet when passing a bike
- Remember bikes can use the full lane. If behind one, slow down and be patient
- Be attentive at intersections and driveways and check all directions. Bikes and pedestrians can be coming from all directions on sidewalks, even when traffic is going one way
- Do not overtake and pass other vehicles stopped for pedestrians
- Slowdown at the mid-block crosswalks on N. Roosevelt Boulevard

Bikers:

- Bikes are considered vehicles and must obey all traffic regulations
- Never ride the wrong way down a one-way street
- Always use a light at night
- Always ride on the right side of the street with the flow of traffic – never against traffic
- Always lock your bike. Even for a few minutes
- Bikes are allowed on sidewalks, except on Duval Street. Always yield to pedestrians

Walkers:

- Stay on designated sidewalks and trails
- On shared paths, stay to the right
- Only cross at marked intersections and crosswalks
- Look left, right and left again before crossing the street
